The first week has begun very smoothly with all our current and new children settling into their new classroom environments. We began the school year by welcoming new staff and those returning from long service leave with a staff induction day. All teachers, including staff from St Therese’ Primary School, were back on deck on Tuesday with a professional development day focussing on English. Thursday our students from Years One to Six began school. The students looked fantastic in their new house shirts.

In my walk through the school I encountered students munching on fruit, eating their healthy lunches in the shade and listening intently to their new teacher, finding out the new routines and rules to keep them safe.
